During the course of transmission, a sender could request the recall of a postal article or ask to deliver it to another addressee. This service has been significantly helping in preserving the social fabric of family life by shielding it from whim and caprice of an irrational mind. An impulsive decision to separate or divorce could be reviewed once sanity starts prevailing.

The sender could request recall of an article in writing after paying a nominal fee. An officer upon being satisfied that the applicant is the sender order the re-delivery to the sender or delivery to another addressee of the postal article.
